DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Due to the new grounds of rejection, this Action is made Non-Final.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 26, 30-35, 40-43 and 45-51 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Thorsbakken US 4,553,678 in view of Kusz US 5,803,287.

Thorsbakken '678 teaches a container neck finish and a closure comprising threads (26) and stop lugs (unlabeled, just above lug 23 in figure 8), and a closure with internal threads (34) and lugs (16, 23A) with axially extending cam surfaces thereon, and furthermore with a biasing element (41) with circumferential segments (43) whereby when the closure is threaded onto the container neck opening, the closure lugs engage the container neck lugs and are biased together by the spring element in order to prevent over rotation, and to prevent removal, absent a downward force on the container.

The reference fails to teach the lugs on the closure being separate from the closure threads.

Kusz '287 teaches a closure cap whereby closure lugs (46) are shown to be separate from the threads (44) in order to lock the container in a closed position.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the closure of Thorsbakken '678, providing the lugs separate from the closure threads, motivated by the benefit of material usage reduction. Furthermore Examiner notes it has been held that constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Erlichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 19-35 and 40-52 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 27-29, 44 and 52 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
